Climate Change 2021: A Christian Response

Tuesday 19th January 2021

7.30 -8.30pm (via Zoom)

Martin and Margot Hodson

Climate change is the other major issue of our time. All of our churches have been exploring how we can be more environmentally conscious in our homes, in our community and in our churches and this talk is an opportunity to be encouraged in that quest, by two experienced and well-qualified speakers giving a Christian perspective.

The programme for the evening will be:

7.30-7.35 Introduction

7.35-7.55 Climate Change (Martin)

7.55-8.05 Questions

8.05-8.25 New Testament (Margot)

8.25 to end Questions and Conclusion

Everyone is welcome.

The speakers:

Martin Hodson is Operations Director with the John Ray Initiative (JRI) and Principal Tutor for CRES (Christian Rural and Environmental Sciences) a distance learning course based at Cuddesdon and partnered by JRI and A Rocha. He is former Principal Lecturer in Environmental Biology at Oxford Brookes University and continues with some research and teaching. He specialises in making science accessible to Christian audiences especially in the context of the environmental crisis.

Margot Hodson is Director of Theology and Education for JRI and is an Anglican minister serving in rural parishes in West Oxfordshire. She is Associate Tutor for Environmental Theology and Rural Mission and Ministry at Cuddesdon. Margot and Martin have published a number of books together.
